

Release Date: May 7, 2010

Discover the scientist within at Sipping Science with Let's Talk Science

Media are invited to attend Sipping Science with Let's Talk Science, an informal opportunity for the general public to discuss current scientific issues with leading researchers as part of Science Rendezvous.

WHEN: Saturday, May 8 from 6-8 p.m.

WHERE: Starbucks at Chapter's in Stoneroad Mall, 435 Stone Road West Guelph

WHAT: Scientists Chris Langley, MSc candidate, University of Guelph, Adam Zuiani, laboratory technician, University of Guelph, and Richard Manderville, chemistry professor, University of Guelph, will be on hand at Starbucks to engage customers in lively discussion about scientific issues that are currently in the news, or about their own research. Their areas of expertise include microbiology, biochemistry, organic chemistry and toxicology.

FOR MORE INFORMATION:

Krista Habermehl, Communications Officer, Let's Talk Science
519-474-4081 ext. 239, khhabermehl@letstalkscience.ca

ABOUT SCIENCE RENDEZVOUS

Science Rendezvous is a free, one-day festival-style celebration of science for the general public. More than 1,000 volunteers and leaders in science and technology, representing award-winning Canadian institutions and organizations across Ontario will open their doors as part Science Rendezvous. For more information about Science Rendezvous, please visit www.sciencerendezvous.ca.

ABOUT LET'S TALK SCIENCE

Let's Talk Science is an award-winning, national, charitable, science outreach organization. Let's Talk Science creates and delivers science learning programs and services that turn kids on to science, keep them engaged in learning and develop their potential to become 21st century stewards, innovators and citizens. For more information about Let's Talk Science, please visit www.letstalkscience.ca.